DAILY PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON, JANUARY 3, 1834.

SUDDEN CHANGE OF WEATHER.—Yesterday morning, at ten o'clock, in writing our editorial paragraph, we said—"there is now as little prospect of the closing of the river as there was in October." Since that time a great change has taken place—it is now very cold, and a few days continuance of such weather will put an end to navigation.

EXTRAORDINARY CORRESPONDENCE.—We devote a considerable portion of this day's paper to the correspondence between the U. States Bank and the Treasurer of the United States, in relation to the drafts which had been lent to the pet banks by the Secretary of the Treasury. This is altogether a singular matter—the constitution provides that "no money shall be drawn from the Treasury, except in pursuance of appropriations made by law." The Secretary of the Treasury has the power under certain circumstances, to order the deposits to be removed: he is to be the judge, the only judge of those circumstances. Here, however, this discretion which the law committed to the Secretary of the Treasury is, by him, delegated to the cashiers of some five or six pet banks—so that not only a portion of the public money may be drawn from the public at the discretion of Mr. Taney, "without an appropriation," but at the arbitrary discretion of any one of five or six cashiers.

The power to remove the deposits was given to the Secretary of the Treasury, to be exercised, as is generally supposed, when those deposits were in danger.—Here, however, this power is deputed to several cashiers, to be exercised not when the deposits were in danger, but when the credit of the pet banks, or of any one of them, was in danger—to be exercised, not to secure the public funds, but to sustain a failing bank.

One misstep has led Mr. Taney into a labyrinth of difficulties, and we think he will have much trouble in reconciling his conduct with the provisions of the law and the constitution. We admire the discretion of Mr. Campbell, in saying nothing more in reply to Mr. Jaudon, when he had nothing more to say.

EXTRAORDINARY CORRESPONDENCE.

The following correspondence is of an extraordinary character, and of high importance, which has recently taken place between the Treasurer of the United States and the Cashier of the United States Bank. It developes another revolting feature of the conspiracy of the Government against the Bank, which ought to arrest the deep attention of every man. From this correspondence it will be seen, "that for weeks drafts for sums exceeding two millions of dollars, were hanging over the United States Bank, without any notice from the Treasury of the existence of such drafts, although meantime lists were daily—and corrected and fuller ones weekly—furnished to the Bank by the Treasury, specifying drafts for even the smallest sums, and purporting, or at least understood! to include all of any sort drawn on the Bank, and yet these contingent drafts for more than two millions of dollars, payable on demand, and lent to pet Banks for their convenience, and to be presented at their discretion, were never alluded to in these lists or otherwise, until one of them was presented for payment." Mr. Campbell, the Treasurer, has labored hard to justify the course taken by the Treasury Department in this matter—but in vain. The straight forward frankness and honesty of Mr. Jaudon, was an overmatch for him, and he has not allowed the government agent to escape by evasions, indirections, and concealments.

The fact beyond question is, that the managers of that ideality, the Executive mind, have been engaged in a deep conspiracy, the design of which was, either to compel the parent bank directly to stop payment, or to break some one or more of the branches, and by creating a general panic, produce the same result by that means. It is clear from the correspondence before us, that the Treasury Department was endeavoring to take the Bank by surprize, on demands of an unusually large amount. And other facts have from time to time been developed, which, taken in connection with this correspondence, show that the conspiracy was matured, and the attempt made to execute it.—Such is the irresistible inference from the private letters of Amos Kendall to the government stock jobbers, published a few days since. It will be seen by reference to the dates of those letters, in which Mr. Kendall spoke so confidently of having the Bank entirely in the power of the Secretary of the Treasury, that the large transfer drafts, now under consideration, had been secretly issued, and that too, with Mr. Kendall's cognizance.

Hence the expression in one of those letters, that the Secretary had his foot on the reptile, and could crush it at pleasure. The event proved, however, that he was compelled to take his foot off again, as Pat did off the hornet's nest. Again—It was about the same time that the Cashier of the Earl of Carmarthen's bank—the Manhattan—also threatened a run upon some one or more of the distant branches. A gentleman of responsibility published this fact at the time, in this paper, and left his name with us, should it be demanded. And still again—The run upon the branch at Savannah, from the government brokers in this city, followed immediately after these threats and disclosures. —Thus is the chain of evidence of the conspiracy complete. The truth is that the government had determined to break the Bank, and seize upon its effects. We rather guess they wont try again.—N. Y. Com. Adv.

UNITED STATES BANK.

Bank United States, Nov. 5, 1833.

Sir—Permit me to ask your particular attention to a draft for $500,000, in favor of the Cashier of the Girard Bank, which has been brought into your account, transmitted by this day's mail.

The uniform practice has been for the Treasury to transmit to the Bank a weekly statement of the drafts drawn by him on the Bank and its offices. This statement, in its terms, purports to be, and has always been deemed to be, a complete list of all the drafts on the Bank; so well understood was this, that, when an omission was brought to your notice by my predecessor, you answered on the 15th August, 1829, explaining that the omission was accidental, and adding, "I now beg leave to enclose a statement of the transfer referred to, and will cause you to be properly notified of such as may be directed hereafter." Nevertheless, a draft for $100,000, on the office of this Bank in Baltimore, in favor of the Union Bank of Maryland, and a draft on this Bank, also in favor of the Union Bank of Maryland, for a like sum of $100,000, of which drafts no mention was made in the lists transmitted to the Bank, have been presented and paid.

On Saturday, the 2d inst., this draft for $500,000, in favor of the Cashier of the Girard Bank, was presented, although, since the date of this draft, nearly a month had elapsed, and we have received from you five lists of drafts, in which this was not mentioned, yet it has been paid from a desire to do honor to any thing which bears your signature. But the appearance, in succession, of these drafts, without being notified in your lists, which embrace the minutest sums, make it necessary, for the security of the Bank, to receive your instruction in regard to them. Will you therefore have the goodness to inform me whether it is your desire that these lists shall serve as a guide to the Bank, to be treated as letters of advice of the drafts, and forming a security against the payment of those not recognized by you, or whether you authorize the payment of drafts bearing your signature, although you do not advise the Bank of their having been issued?

I am, &c. S. JAUDON, Cashier.

JOHN CAMPLELL, Esq.,
Treasurer of the United States, Washington.

TREASURY OF THE UNITED STATES,
November 8, 1833.

Sir—I have received your letter of the 5th inst. calling my attention to the fact of certain treasury drafts having been paid to the Bank of the United States, and its office at Baltimore, the issuing of which had not been notified to the Bank, in the weekly statement.

The general practice in the office of furnishing to the Bank, at the close of each week, a statement of the drafts and warrants on it and its offices, issued during the week is readily acknowledged, a practice which I found in operation when I entered the treasury, and adopted by the department, I presume, as a mere matter of convenience to the Bank, in settling its accounts with its branches, and with this office, and not of security to the Bank, as you have supposed. Desirous to afford every facility to the Bank in its transactions with this office, which it had received from my predecessor, I had no hesitation in saying, upon being informed that the transfer drafts had been omitted in the weekly statements, that the former practice should be continued.

The drafts in question, however, were not of the usual kind, and did not properly belong to the usual weekly statement. They were issued by direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, to be used in the event of certain contingencies, upon failure of which they were to be returned to the Treasury and cancelled.—Had they been inserted in the weekly statement, they would have led at once to a deduction from the Treasurer's account, when it was hoped and expected that the occasion might not arise for presenting them for payment. Upon presenting them for this purpose, the banks in whose favor they were drawn, were instructed to give immediate notice to this office, in order that they might be inserted in the weekly statements. This you will find was accordingly done, by referring to the statements of the 12th ult.—At what time the practice of furnishing the weekly statements originated, I am not able to say, but the only use which appeared to be made of them was to enable the bank to keep up its aggregate account with the Treasury and the branches, as before stated.

That they could not have been intended "to serve as letters of advice of the drafts, or as forming a security to the Bank against those not recognized by the Treasurer," is evident from the fact (among others,) that the drafts reported in it, being issued on any day in the week, and the statement not sent until the close of the business on Saturday, must in most cases have been presented and paid before the statement came to hand. It was nevertheless not intended to take the Bank by surprise.—The holders, as I understand, were requested to apprize the Bank of their having contingent drafts upon it, and have in fact been in communication with the Bank on the subject. From this statement you will readily perceive, that there was no disposition to withhold from the Bank any information that had been usual, or was considered necessary for the convenience of the Bank. The information was not considered necessary as notice to the Bank at the time the drafts were issued, and the office had provided the means, and was in the course of furnishing the information in time to answer the only purpose for which it was believed to have been used.

The only drafts now out, of the contingent characters above stated, and which have not been introduced into the weekly statements, are three drafts, for $500,000 each, on the Branch Bank in New York, in favor of the Bank of America, Mechanics' Bank, and the Manhattan Company, all of New York. In the course of next week, I shall be enabled to inform you whether they are intended to be used, or to be returned to this office. If they are presented by the proper officer of the respective Banks, above stated, they will, I hope, be honored, and if they are returned I shall immediately advise you of it. The occasion which was supposed to make drafts of this description proper, having now passed, I am instructed by the Secretary of the Treasury to inform you, that no drafts will be issued but such as are intended to be presented and paid. These will be included in the weekly statements, as usual. Whether the drafts which may be presented are genuine or not, or payment demanded by the person lawfully authorized to receive it, you must, on all occasions, as heretofore, decide for yourself, on your own responsibility. I am, very respectfully, sir, your obedient servant, JOHN CAMPBELL,
Treasurer of the United States.

S. JAUDON, Esq.,
Cashier Bank United States.

BANK OF THE UNITED STATES,
November 15*th*, 1833.

Sir—I have had the pleasure of receiving your letter, of the 8th inst., in which you inform me that the drafts were issued by you, without the accustomed notice to the Bank, because they "were not of the usual kind," and were issued by the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, to be used "in the event of certain contingencies."

Without feeling myself disposed or authorized to say any thing, as to the general character of these drafts, I am constrained to recur to the subject, for the purpose of apprizing you that such drafts are so entirely at variance with the present instructions of the Treasury, that it has become necessary, as well for the Treasury as for the Bank, either to discontinue the practice of drawing, without notice, or else to make the instructions conform to it.

In my letter, of the 5th inst., I brought to your notice the fact of the omission of the drafts on the weekly statements, because the drafts being drawn on distant parts of the establishment, could only be known, to the Bank at Philadelphia, by your weekly statements, and because the suppression, from these weekly lists, of drafts, outstanding for many weeks, seem to require that some explanation should be requested. Your reply, that it was not necessary to notice them, as a matter of security to the Bank, because the drafts, drawn in the course of the week, might be presented before the list, sent at the end of week, could reach the Bank, is undoubtedly true. The weekly lists are for the general information of the Bank, but you are perfectly aware that, in order to supply this very defect, in the weekly statements, and for the very express purpose of giving a notice, cotemporaneous with the draft itself, you furnish a daily list to the Bank, and to every branch drawn upon, of the drafts drawn upon them, respectively, on that day, and this with the avowed specified object of guarding the Bank against frauds. Your circular and "confidential" letter to the Cashiers of all the Branches, is in these words:

TREASURY OF THE UNITED STATES,
June 23, 1829.

"SIR—In compliance with instructions of the Secretary of the Treasury, under date of the 22d inst., I have the honor to inform you that a daily list, to commence with the 26th inst., will be transmitted to you, by this office, of the warrants that may be directed, during the day, to your institution for payment. It is believed that this measure is calculated to prevent frauds upon the Banks; and as a precaution against its falling into improper hands, the list will not be accompanied by any letter, or explanatory remark, but will merely contain the number of the warrant, whether on account of the Treasury, War, or Navy Department, the name of the party in whose favor it is drawn, and the amount.

I am, very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
(Signed) JOHN CAMPBELL,
Treasurer of the United States."

You will readily perceive that, according to this letter, the Treasury, in order to prevent frauds upon the Bank, gives a daily list, of drafts daily drawn; and, for fear this very daily list might be perverted, it was framed in a particular manner, so as not to be intelligible, if it fell into improper hands.

The officers, to whom this letter was addressed, naturally presumed that this, daily and continually communicated, was to serve as a guide and check on the drafts themselves, and the Treasury was apprized that no drafts should be paid, unless they were on these lists. Of this fact the files of the Treasury furnish this illustration. The Cashier of the Branch at New York wrote to the Secretary of the Treasury, on the 12th of April, 1830.

"I beg leave to call your attention to the advice of drafts, from the Treasury, on this Branch. The following were presented, some days since, and payment refused, for want of advice, viz:

"War: 586,	John Riddle,	$170	00
585,	do.	1,577	56
587,	do.	752	12
588,	do.	1,016	00

"All those advised, on the 7th and 8th inst., are without the names of the parties to whom they were given, and no discrimination as to army or navy. I shall, in future, refuse, in all cases where advice is not given. I have the honor to be, your obedient servant,

M. ROBINSON, Cashier.

"Hon S. D. INGHAM,
Secretary of the Treasury, Washington."

This letter was referred to you by the Secretary, and, in your answer, dated the 17th of April, 1830, you say—"Your refusal to pay the warrants is considered quite proper. The inconvenience which the parties may have incurred from it is indeed much to be regretted, but a payment without advice would be upon the responsibility of the Bank."

You cannot fail to perceive the embarrassment to which the relations between the Treasury and the Bank are now subjected—and the example of the Branch at New York is worthy of special attention. You have been sending to that Branch a daily list, professing to give a description of every draft drawn upon the Branch on that day. The Cashier receives this, and confides in it. He has already refused to pay drafts not on that list, and the Treasury has directed him to refuse in future. Yet it now appears that while his daily list contains the most trifling sums, there are drawn upon him three checks of $500,000, each without any the least notice of them on either the daily list or the weekly list. The consequence is, that had they been presented a week ago, the payment of them would necessarily have been refused, and the Treasury draft have been dishonored, in consequence of the Treasury instructions. They would be dishonored now, but that, in order to give every facility to the business of the Treasury, the Cashier was by me apprized of them, and authorized to pay them after the receipt of your letter. You further state, that "the holders of the drafts were requested to apprize the Bank of their having contingent drafts upon it—and have in fact been in communication with the Bank upon the subject;" and you add, that "from this statement you will readily perceive that there was no disposition to withhold from the Bank any information that had been usual, or was considered necessary for the convenience of the Bank."

I am perfectly satisfied that you would never consent to any thing calculated to mislead or to deceive the Bank, and yet, you cannot, I think, fail to perceive to how many difficulties this statement is exposed. You observe that "there was no disposition to withhold from the Bank any information that had been usual." Yet the weekly lists were usual—the daily lists were not only usual—but were declared by the Treasury itself indispensable. Yet these were withheld. You further remark that the holders of the drafts were requested to apprize the Bank of their existence. If so, the Treasury must have thought it necessary that the Bank should be informed of it, and the question naturally occurs, why should not that information have been given in the usual and regular way, rather than leave it to the uncertain compliance with a request by the holder of the drafts, for it appears by the Report of the Cashier of the Branch in New York, that he has received no notice of the existence of these outstanding drafts, except through me.

I am the less surprized at the omission, since even with the disposition [illegible] you have yourself manifested to communicate accurate information to the Bank, one of these drafts seems to have escaped your own notice. Thus, in your letter of the 8th inst., you state that "the only drafts now out of the contingent character above stated, and which have not been introduced into the weekly statements, are three drafts for $500,000 each, on the Branch in New York." Now, on the 4th inst. a draft for $100,000, on the Branch at Baltimore, was paid, bearing date the 4th of October. Of this draft, no advice has ever yet been received from you in the weekly list. Allow, me, then to repeat my request, that if these daily and weekly statements are to be continued, they may be rendered what they profess to be—accurate accounts on which the Bank may rely in the arrangements of its business. Very respectfully, your obedient servant, S. JAUDON, Cashier.

JOHN CAMPBELL, Esq,
Treasurer United States, Washington.

TREASURY OF THE UNITED STATES,
November 25, 1833.

Sir—Your letter of the 15th instant, in reply to mine of the 8th, in relation to certain Transfer Drafts, which were issued, as I had informed you, in compliance with the instructions of the Secretary of the Treasury, I received in due time.

A desire that the transactions of this Office with the Bank may be correctly understood, and that certain communications of mine to which your letter has had reference, may be more fully explained, which I perceive have been entirely misapprehended, induced me to trouble you with this reply. You inform me that "such drafts are so entirely at variance with the present instructions of the Treasury, that it has become necessary, as well for the Treasury as for the Bank, either to discontinue the practice of drawing without notice, or else to make the instructions conform to it;" and you refer me to a letter of mine of the 22d of June, 1829, communicating certain instructions of the Secretary of the Treasury, which required daily lists of the WARRANTS directed to the Bank for payment during the day, as the instructions of the Treasury which have not been complied with by not furnishing a list of TRANSFER DRAFTS. A reference to those instructions cannot fail to disclose to you that you have entirely misunderstood them. What are they? They are "that a daily list will be transmitted to you by this office, of the WARRANTS that may be directed during the day to your institution for payment." Nothing is said in these instructions of furnishing a daily list of TRANSFER DRAFTS.

It is surely not necessary for me to point out to you the manifest difference between a warrant with the Treasurer's order annexed to it, directed to the Bank for payment of money out of the Treasury, and a transfer draft issued by order of the Secretary, to transfer public funds from one Bank to another. There never have been any instructions from the Treasury requiring me to furnish daily lists of transfer drafts; they never have been included in a single instance, in the daily lists of warrants, that have been directed during the day for payment.

The Transfer Drafts are included in the weekly statements, not to guard the Bank against frauds, as you have supposed, but for the purpose of general information in regulating the Treasurer's aggregate account with the Bank and its branches. You proceed to state, however, that I must be "perfectly aware that to supply this defect in the weekly statement, and for the express purpose of giving a notice contemporaneous with the draft itself, a daily list is furnished to the Bank, and every Branch drawn on, of the drafts drawn upon them respectively on that day, and that with the avowed specified purpose of guarding the Bank against frauds."

How can the daily list of warrants be intended for such a purpese in relation to transfer drafts, when the transfer drafts are never included in it, and when no daily lists of transfer drafts have ever been furnished?

The drafts alluded to were not included in the usual weekly statements, for the reasons stated in my last letter. It was not known certainly whether they would be presented and paid, or returned to the department and cancelled. It was therefore thought the most correct course not to include them in the amount drawn for during the week by this office, unless it was known they were to be paid; and the holders were directed to give the proper information to the Treasury, if the drafts were intended to be used. If they had been included in the amount drawn for during the week, and not paid, an erroneous exhibition of the Treasurer's account would have been the consequence.

It was satisfactorily shown, in my letter of the 8th, that the practice of furnishing weekly reports to the Bank, of the drafts drawn on it and its Branches during the week, being anterior to my entrance into the Treasury, was continued as a matter of convenience to the Bank, for general information, and not as required by any Treasury instructions, and that the mode in which the contingent drafts were intended to be reported in these statements. The question therefore now remaining, seems only to be, whether it was usual, or was required by the Treasury instructions, for the Treasurer to give daily or contemporaneous notice of the Transfer Drafts to the Bank or Branches on which they were drawn.

To this question the negative can be confidently affirmed—

In the circular letter from this office of the 23d June, 1829, written by the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, and quoted by you at length, the Banks are informed, that a daily list will be "transmitted to them of the Warrants that may be directed to them during the day for payment," which list to prevent its being used in case it should fall into improper hands, "will merely contain the number of the warrant, whether on account of the Treasury, War, or Navy Department, the name of the party in whose favor it is drawn, and the amount." It was on Warrants designed as War Warrants, that the Branch at N. York refused to make payments without advice, and not Transfer Drafts, and the refusal to pay the warrant, I of course approved, as the notice in such case was required by the regulations of the Treasury. If any doubt remained upon this subject, the history of those Warrants will sufficiently show the practice of the office in this respect, and the perfect understanding of it on the part of the Branch Bank of New York, for on the day that the Cashier refused to pay the warrant for want of notice, he paid Transfer Draft No. 94, for $200,000, without notice, and three days after Transfer Draft No. 96, for $100,000, without notice.

I need scarce add that the failure to report draft No. 547, for $100,000 on the Baltimore Office, in the statement of the 9th instant, was an omission of the Clerk. It was nevertheless not "outstanding" at the time my letter was written, having been paid on the 4th, and doubtless immediately reported to you.

The charter of the Bank of the United States has given to the Secretary of the Treasury the sole power of ordering transfers of the public funds from place to place, for the convenience of the public service, and he of course must judge of their necessity and legality. It therefore would be out of place in me to offer any observations as to the character of the drafts to which some allusion has been made. He is responsible to the nation for the proper exercise of this power, and of course cannot be controlled in it by any officer of the Treasury or of the Bank, as I conceive.—The charter of the Bank provides, "that whenever required by the Secretary of the Treasury, the said corporation shall give the necessary facilities for transferring the public funds from place to place within the United States or the Territories thereof, and for distributing the same in payment of the public creditors." The form in which this power, thus confided to the Secretary, is to be carried into effect, he has prescribed in his instructions to the Bank of May 28th, 1829, and were accordingly communicated to all the Banks in which there were public funds. These instructions are as follows:

"When transfers are to be made of public funds from one bank to another, the Treasurer will issue a transfer draft upon the bank in which the funds may be at his credit in favor of the bank to which they are to be transferred, to the amount required, stating that it is to be placed to his credit in such bank. This draft will be recorded by the Register, who will authenticate the record by his signature upon the draft, and will finally receive the written sanction of the Secretary of the Treasury.

The Transfer Draft, signed by the Treasurer, Register, and Secretary, in pursuance of these instructions, is the form prescribed by the Secretary for carrying into effect the power confided to his discretion of ordering transfers of the public funds from place to place. It was adopted to give authenticity to the order, and to enable the Treasurer to render an accurate account of the state of the public funds, in the Bank and its Branches, and not in consequence of his having any discretion or control over the subject. He has, therefore, rigidly and strictly conformed to all the instructions given by the Secretary of the Treasury, on this subject, and whenever he shall direct that daily notices of Transfer Drafts, as well as of Warrants, shall be transmttted to the Banks, by this Office, those instructions shall, with great pleasure, be complied with on my part; but, until such instructrons are given the practice of this Office will be continued as heretofore.

When disbursements of money are to be made out of the Treasury, the law has pointed out the duties of the Treasurer. Such disbursements are to be made alone upon the Warrant of the Secretary of the Treasury, countersigned by the Comptroller, and recorded and authenticated by the signature of the Register; and by the regulations of the Treasury, of the 28th of May, 1829, which were also communicated to all the Banks in which there were public deposits, the Treasurer is required to write his order for the payment of the money upon the Warrant. And, by another regulation, the Treasurer is required to transmit to the Bank a daily list of the Warrants thus directed, during the day, to the Bank for payment. These regulations have been, and will continue to be, uniformly complied with. I am, very respectfully, sir, your obedient servant,

JOHN CAMPBELL,
Treasurer of the United States.

S. JAUDON, Esq.,
Cashier of the Bank of the United States,
Philadelphia.

BANK OF THE UNITED STATES,
December 9th, 1833.

Sir—My absence from Philadelphia when your favor of the 25th ult. reached there, and much occupation since my return, have prevented an early reply to it. This I shall now make as briefly as possible. You account for the omission to give daily notice of what you have called the "Contingent Drafts," for $2,300,000, by saying that you had agreed to give notice only of warrants, and not of transfer drafts. Now it cannot fail, I think, to occur to you, that these "Contingent Drafts" are not in their nature at all Transfer Drafts in the sense hitherto understood, but are in fact mere warrants.

The Transfer Drafts, as you justly state, arise under that provision of the Charter which obliges the Bank, whenever required by the Secretary of the Treasury, to make the necessary facilities for transferring the public funds from place to place, within the United States or Territories thereof, and for distributing the same in payment to the public creditors, without charging commissions or claiming allowance on account difference of exchange. Accordingly, the Transfer Draft was designed to direct the Bank to make transfers.—Its very name imports it—its very words order it. It runs:

"Pay to —— or order, $——, to be placed to my credit on that —— office" [or bank, as the case may be;] that is, it directs the bank to place a credit in favor of the Treasurer in such another place—whether it be a branch of this bank, or a state bank.

The Contingent Draft, although it is in the same form as the Transfer Draft, has not one of its qualities. It is called a Transfer Draft—yet it directs nothing to be transferred—it is issued under a provision that the bank shall transfer the public money from place to place, without charging for the rate of exchange, yet it is issued in favor of a bank in the same place, not distant one hundred yards, and where no difference of exchange was possible. The arrangement of 1819 stipulates that a certain time shall be allowed for making transfers from place to place. But this Contingent Draft is immediate and peremptory, and admits of no delay. How nearly it resembles the ordinary warrant may be seen from their respective forms. The warrant runs thus:

"Pay to A. B., on order, out of the appropriation named in the margin, $——."

This Transfer Draft runs:

"Pay to A. B., Cashier of ————, or order, $ ——, to be placed to my credit in that Bank."

The Transfer Draft, like the warrant, is endorsed in blank just as an ordinary check—it is, in point of fact, neither more nor less than a warrant at sight. The very name of a Contingent Draft is a financial novelty, and as far as is intelligible in this case, it describes an order for $2,300,000 on the Bank, not merely without notice of its existence—but with the strongest presumption against its existence, and dependent for its immediate presentation on contingences which the Bank did not know, and the Treasury could not control. Thus you state that the holders of these drafts "were directed to give the proper information to the Treasury, if the drafts were intended to be used," yet in fact the holders could not themselves know whether they meant to present them an hour before the actual presentation. What I ventured to state was, that while you professed to give notice of all the smallest demands on the bank, you avoid giving notice of the demands for between 2 and $3,000,000, of precisely the same character, and the existence of which it was far more necessary for the Bank to know. But supposing all this to be exactly as you view it—supposing this Transfer Draft not to be in fact a warrant, and therefore necessarily to be included in the daily list, one thing becomes inevitable.

If this Transfer Draft is not a warrant, it cannot be denied that it is a Transfer Draft. Then, if it be not a warrant which must be put on the daily list, it must be a draft to be put on the weekly list. Now it was not put upon either. Neither the daily list, which you sent for the purpose of protecting the bank against frauds, nor the weekly list, which you considered as a matter of convenience to the bank for general information, and on which you have always placed the Transfer Drafts, contained any notice whatever of these drafts. If it be true that you never put a Transfer Draft on the daily list, it is equally true that until now you have never designedly omitted one from the weekly list. So that by whatever names the drafts on the lists be called, the result is the same—that orders from the Treasury for the immediate payment by the bank of $2,300,000, have been issued without the habitual notice which has heretofore been always given of similar demands upon the bank.

Having thus, for the sake of a clear understanding between the Bank and the Treasury, restated my views of the subject, I will only add, that I am, very respectfully, your obedient, humble servant, S. JAUDON, Cashier.

J. APPLETON'S LATE IMPROVED

WASHING MACHINE.

THIS valuable improvement has been preferred by all who have used it to any other machine of the kind yet offered to the public.—It is expeditious, without injuring the clothes washed, as will be seen in the certificates below. All those who wish to save labor in washing, will please to call and see the operation, at the Masinon House, corner of Wood and Fifth streets. Machines, and the right of counties for sale—Machines 12 dollars—and at any persons service for trial. Dec. 31, 1833.

We have had in use Appleton's Patent Washing Machine, and do not hesitate to say that it is preferable to any that we have seen or used. A woman can wash as much in one day, with the machine, as she could in three by the hand, and only half the soap is necessary. We think it clears the clothes better than hand washing, without injury to them. We have also used Barnes' Patent Steam Washing Machine, called Peg Machine, but give Appleton's the preference. It washes cleaner and faster; therefore we recommend Appleton's Machine to the public in general.

Lucy Higginbotham, | Elizabeth McKim.
Robert Poore,

We have in use Appleton's Patent Washing Machine. It is so simple in its construction that it may be used by any unskilful hand, and we do recommend it as a great saving of time and labor.

Hamilton County Agricultural Society.

It is hereby certified, that the Judges, appointed by the Hamilton County Agricultural Society, for the exhibition, held at Mill Creek, on the second of October, 1833, having awarded that Appleton's Washing Machine, submitted to the Society, on trial, appeared to their satisfaction to be of utility as a labor saving machine in domestic economy—they unhesitatingly recommend it to their fellow citizens—in testimony whereof, this Certificate is given. FAIRBANK'S PLATFORM SCALES.

THESE scales are constructed upon an improved principle; are fitted up with great care by the manufacturers, and warranted to weigh with accuracy from half a pound to 12,000. Being placed in, and forming part of, the floor, the process of weighing is performed with ease and facility, while the space they occupy may be improved as a passage way or for other purposes.

The construction of these scales is such that they are little liable to derangement of wear, and their perfect operation will be guaranteed for any reasonable length of time.

The usual objection, that a new method of weighing cannot be safely entrusted to unskilful hands, is obviated by the use of the improved BALANCE, concerning which are the following remarks in the Journal of the Franklin Institute, of the state of Pennsylvania, for the promotion of the Mechanic Arts, for June, 1833. (Edited by Thos. P. Jones, M. D., late Superintendent of the Patent Office, at Washington, Professor of Mechanics in the Franklin Institute, &c.

"The Messrs. Fairbanks, some time since, obtained a patent for a Platform Weighing Machine, and this mode of adjuating and graduating the Beam of the Balance, and the weights, was devised by them with a view to its employment with the before mentioned machine. We have had an opportunity of examining one of their balances, and have been much pleased with it: this examination, however, was not necessary to the conviction that it possesses a just claim to the character of a real improvement, the whole arrangement being so simple as to enable any person to perceive that it is well adapted to the purpose contemplated, that of facilitating the business of weighing, and more especially of heavy articles."

The subscriber, as Agent, will receive orders for the above Scales, which will be made in this city to order. They can be seen at his Warehouse, No. 84, Front street.

Nov. 8, 1833. MOSES ATWOOD.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

THE Subscribers, Trustees of the New Philadelphia Society, at Phillipsburgh, Beaver county, Pennsylvania, offer for sale the following property, to wit:

1	tract of land	containing	330 acres
1	do	do	330
1	do	do	67
1	do	do	7
1	do	do	40
	other lots, containing about		6

The above lands lie in one body, fronting about two miles upon the Ohio river—immediately opposite the mouth of Big Beaver creek, and the Beaver Division of the Pennsylvania Canal. The land is rich, and a part of it under a high state of cultivation—its location pleasant and healthy. The improvements upon the same are valuable, including the town of Phillipsburgh, late the residence of Count Leon, and the New Philadelphia Society. The town contains about 40 Dwelling Houses, now in order; some of them brick houses and two stories high. A large and spacious Hotel, a Store house, Church, a number of Shops, for mechanics, Stables, Barns, and other out houses. Also, two large new buildings, lately erected, but not yet finished, one of brick, the other of frame (the latter suitable for a manufactory) a very extensive public garden, and also fruit trees of various kinds. The property has also attached to it the right of a ferry across the Ohio, which is valuable, and becoming more so every day.

The above property is situated in the midst of a wealthy and prosperous country, distant about 28 miles below Pittsburgh, and one mile from Beaver, the seat of justice for Beaver county—and having a view for many miles up and down the Ohio, and of the country to a great distance around.

The subscribers are confident in saying that few situations could be found, presenting greater facilities to the farmer, mechanic, the manufacturer, and others—a soil rich and productive—the neighborhood abounding in coal—well timbered and watered, and, by means of the Pennsylvania Canal, and steamboat navigation, a cheap and ready conveyance to market, and a communication with other places is ensured.

The property is susceptible of divisions into farms, or for the location of new towns, or for the extension of the present one.

Should it not be sold on or before the first day of January next, it will then be offered at public sale, upon the premises, to the highest and best bidder.

It will be sold in a body, or in parcels, to suit purchasers.

Terms of sale will be reasonable.

Information can be had by enquiring of the subscribers, two of whom live in the neighborhood, and one on the premises.

DOCTOR ROBERT'S

☞WELCH MEDICAMENTUM.☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

Utica, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer s vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

GEO. W. CARPENTER'S
COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes giving temporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradually increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in a cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

PATENT PLANING MACHINE.—The right to use this valuable machine, invented and patented by William Woodworth, and known as Woodworth's Patent Planing Machine, may be obtained on application to the subscriber for the counties of Allegheny, Butler, Beaver, Washington, Green, Fayette, Somerset, Cambria, Indiana, Jefferson, Clearfield, M'Kean, Warren, Venango, Mercer, Crawford, and Erie, in the State of Pennsylvania. That part of Maryland lying west of the Blue Ridge; all that part of Virginia lying west of the Blue Ridge, except the county of Ohio. The whole of the state of Ohio except the counties of Hamilton, Butler, and Montgomery. The whole of the state of Kentucky, except the counties of Jefferson, Boone, Oldham, Gallatin, and Campbell. The whole of Indiana, except the counties of Floyd, Clark, Jefferson, Dearborn, and Switzerland. The whole of the state of Illinois, and the territory of Michigan. Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.
